
Subject: The minimalist shoe trend has produced exciting innovations

Posted by stevenkgarrison on Thu, 30 Jul 2020 02:42:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

"Designed with all-court game players like Frances Tiafoe, the Nike Scarpe Uomo running delivers exceptional on-court responsiveness with its near-full-length Air Zoom Strobel unit. The cushioning technology, which has appeared on the KD 12, KD 13, and PG 4, is stitched directly to the new model's translucent, woven mesh upper. By bringing the Air closer to the foot, wearers experience responsiveness with every step.

Leather has been the material of choice for the Adidas Continental 80 off white upper so far. Now, seen for the first time on the heritage Adidas silhouette, we have a wheat-coloured nubuck, reminiscent of work boots. The theme is carried on with metal eyelets, round brown laces, and even a gum rubber outsole.

Puma Scarpe Donne is built from a selection of top notch, premium materials and, depending on the model, this can be a combination of supple leather, suede or tightly woven mesh. While the uppers are kept predominantly monotone throughout, each features a touch of colour on the tongues and insoles, taken from the brand's long-time staple colours. Extra details include original era-appropriate branding and a gold removable trinket attached to the top lace loop.

In 1982, the New Balance 574 Classic changed the footwear industry by introducing the first $100 running silhouette. That style, offered in grey suede, was a move away from the bright neons and pops of color that dominated the running industry. It changed the industry impression of grey suede and became a color synonymous with New Balance.

This Reebok Scarpe Uomo Bianche comes with mesh and long hair suede. In addition it features Brown fuzzy laces and Reebok branding on the lateral side has been replaced with the Brand Dead logo. Finishing the look is their head motif on the tongue.

"